2025 Estate Rosé of Pinot Noir
($28 retail)

Our first rosé since 2021, this wine was made by Jared Etzel in much the same style our founding winemaker Steve Lutz used to craft it. The key is the saigneé style, where we "bleed" off a small amount of juice from the main fermentation tanks, after about 24 hours of skin contact. This later harvest date gives our rose more body and depth, with richer fruit flavors and a velvety texture. Swirl the glass to see those great legs!

2021 Jill's Dijon 115 Clone Pinot Noir
($70 retail)

One of our most fruit forward wines, the 2021 Jill's was sourced from the very best barrels of 115 Dijon clone harvested from our estate vineyard. This wine is rich and soft in the mouth, with notes of ripe red cherry and boysenberry. The finish is lingering and dense. This wine is aging beautifully, and beginning to show the mocha aromatics and velvety texture that exemplifies nicely-aged Lenne pinot noirs. Drink now or cellar another 2-6 years.

2022 Lenné Willamette Valley Pinot Noir
($60 retail)

The 2022 vintage was cold and late, with snow in April, followed by May gray and June gloom. Thankfully, record heat in August and September, plus a rare dry October, allowed the wines to ripen fully and we picked the fruit in mid-October. This was the first Lenne vintage made by Jared Etzel, and he gave all of our 2022 pinots extended barrel aging to add body and complexity. This wine is dark-fruited and powerful, with dense herbal notes and a spicy finish. Enjoy now, or cellar 8+ years.

2021 South Slope Pinot Noir
($70 retail)

This wine combines the Pommard and Dijon 115 clones, and is our founding winemaker Steve Lutz's favorite two-clone blend. The 2021 summer began with an all time record heat event in the Pacific Northwest, with temps topping 114° over the last weekend in June! The rest of the summer continued hot, with more days than usual topping 90°, and our very large fruit set ripened beautifully. The 2021 pinots were very bold when young, but are now showing a lovely blend of acidity and fruit.

2024 South Slope Pinot Noir
($70 retail)

The 2024 pinot noirs are exceptional in their youth, with an iridescent purple color and irresistible creamy, tangy mouthfeel. When we offer this as mystery bonus pours in the tasting room, guests regularly think the wines are four or five years old, especially if they are not sitting in sunlight, which really brings out the bright purple tone of the vintage. This wine is tangy and succulent, and is a blend of Pommard, with Dijon 115 and 777. Enjoy now, really enjoy in 2-4 years, and cellar up to 10.

2025 South Slope Pinot Noir
($70 retail)

The 2025 growing season saw a mild and sunny Spring, followed by a moderate Summer. The long, gradual ripening created wines that are amazingly approachable in their youth. We had no intention of pouring any of our 2025s until next year, but found them amazingly drinkable as soon as they rolled off the bottling line. Customer feedback on this vertical has been great, so we're including this wine as an early preview of an amazing vintage to our shipping customers.

VINTAGE COMPARISON

2021
A hot year with a large fruit set of very high quality fruit. This was the last vintage made by Lenne's founding winemaker Steve Lutz, and after five years of bottle aging these wines are fantastic. They beautifully balance fruit, acidity, and tannins, and are beginning to exhibit the smooth texture and mocha notes unique to Lenné library wines.

2022
The most challenging growing year since 2011, a cold spring culminated with several inches of snow in mid-April. The following May and June continued this dank weather pattern, and by mid-July the vines were 6 weeks behind their usual ripening pace.l Thankfully a late-arriving summer brought a record number of days above 90 degrees during August and September, and the clear dry weather persisted into October. Harvest took place October 18-21, about a month later than usual.

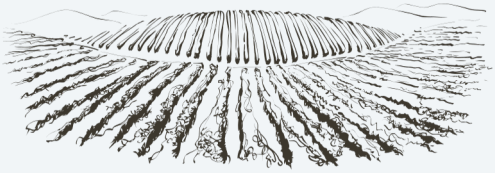

2024
An early summer, but not especially hot. Gradual ripening conditions continued through July and August, giving the wines a "simmered, not microwaved" smoothness.The 2024 wines have great fruit notes and remarkably soft mouthfeel and texture. While they are still simple and young, they are already amazing in the mouth, and we think they'll be all time greats after a few years in the bottle.

2025
The 2025 growing season saw a mild spring with a normal bud break and fruit set. The summer was a bit cooler than usual, and we saw occasional days of light rain in July and early August, before things got wetter in late August and September. By mid-September there was rain nearly every other day, and with more forecast for late September, we picked the fruit over three days starting on September 18th, a bit earlier than we would otherwise have done. The last year with similar wet conditions was 2019, and while those wines were earthy when they were young, the texture matured into a beautiful, supple, creamy mouthfeel that made them one of our most popular vintages.

WINEMAKER COMPARISON

Steve Lutz
Our founder and winemaker from 2004 through the 2021 vintage, Steve's goal was to leverage the dreadfully rocky soil of the Lenné Estate vineyard to create exceptionally big, bold, fruit-driven pinot noir. Steve inoculated the fermentation tanks for a more rapid fermentation and barreled with a higher % of new oak resulting in complex yet approachable wines that are delicious when young and even better with aging. Steve strongly recommends bottle aging at least 3 years, and thinks his pinots hit their prime around the 8+ year mark after bottling. See our vintage chart on our website for drinking/aging recommendations!

Jared Etzel
Our new winemaker took over with the 2022 vintage. Jared always crafts his wines to reflect the terroir of the vineyard, and for Lenné he aims to create dense, fruit-forward pinot noir with exceptional complexity. Jared uses native yeast for a more gradual fermentation process, varies the barreling time from vintage to vintage, and bottles the wine unfined/unfiltered, which yields a much richer mouthfeel and texture. His wines are balanced and intricate right out of the barrel, and he forecasts that they will only grow richer and more complex with bottle aging.
